Election for MCC Panel members postponed

Reason: Late arrival of Corporators to Special Council meeting

Mysuru, June 9 (MTY&BS)- War of words between the Corporators irrespective of party over a few Corporators coming late to the Special Council meeting of Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) this morning, cost the process of elections to Town Hall Committee, Sewage Farm Committee and Amble Annaiah Pandit Management Committee.

Mayor Shivakumar adjourned the meeting for 10 minutes, but it didn't help in calming the tempers of the Corporators, who after the resumption of the meeting demanded that the election process be cancelled to allow general meeting of MCC.

Eventually, Mayor had to acquiesce and announced that the Special Council Meeting had been cancelled and the next schedule will be intimated soon.

Following this, the general meeting began with the Corporators observing a minute's silence to offer condolence to critic Prof. G.H. Nayak, who passed away in city recently.

The Special Council meeting had been convened at Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar Council Hall to elect members for the aforementioned three MCC Committees. Nine Corporators from three parties — BJP, Congress and Janata Dal (Secular) — had filed their nomination papers for the Town Hall Committee. However, some of the Corporators were still walking into the Council Hall, only to irk former Mayor and Congress Corporator Ayub Khan who raised an objection.

MCC Council Secretary R. Rangaswamy explaining about the procedure of elections to the Committees, during the Special Council Meeting at Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar Council Hall this morning. Mayor Shivakumar, Deputy Mayor Dr. G. Roopa and MCC Commissioner G. Lakshmikantha Reddy are seen.

Ayub Khan demanded the Mayor either not to give voting power to such late-coming Corporators or not allow the later-comers inside the Council Hall after the completion of nomination process, which didn't go down well with the Corporators of ruling BJP and JD(S) combine, B.V. Manjunath, M.U. Subbaiah, Prema Shankaregowda and Bhagya Mahadesh, who sought to know whether any law forbids Corporators in question from exercising their voting power.

As the Corporators trained guns on Ayub Khan, Mayor Shivakumar adjourned the meeting till 12.40 pm.

Though the meeting was scheduled at 11 am, it was delayed for one hour due to lack of quorum. Even though the meeting began at 12 noon, a few minutes had passed, when the election process was disrupted due to war or words among the Corporators.

Barring the tenure of ex-Mayor B.K. Prakash, when the elections were conducted for these three Committees, the members were unanimously elected to the said Committees during the tenure of subsequent Mayors, it is said.

Deputy Mayor Dr. G. Roopa, KR MLA T. S. Srivatsa and MCC Commissioner G. Lakshmikantha Reddy were present.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

The term 'family business' used to be associated with a commercial enterprise like a shop or eatery or other service provider, wholly owned and, partially or wholly, run by people related to each other. A family business was a way for family to make money by getting other people to spend their money. This meaning of 'family business' has in recent times been inverted in a process by which families, any and all families, spend money so that other, unrelated people can make it.

How has this happened? The latter-day Einstein of that science of money-making known as marketing has devised a new 'Theory of Relativity', the workings of which dictate that having a family, having relatives, oblige expenditure on your part. As almost everyone has some family — often a lot, in a country like India where parivar is paramount — this entails recurring financial outgoings from kith and kin and a regular source of revenue for non-family folk who operate establishments providing all manner of goods and services.

In May we had an officially declared 'Mother's Day', leading up to which everyone was exhorted by in the print and other media to show appreciation of Mom, for being Mom, by giving her a treat, like a box of chocolates, or a meal in a swank restaurant, or any other token of thanksgiving which involves monetary outlay. This month there's 'Father's Day', when it will be Dad's turn to be feted by being bestowed with all manner of goodies, like aftershave lotions redolent of pine forests, or a pair of designer track shoes branded with an emblematic 'Whoosh' which in sign language urges one to 'Just do it!'

If Mom and Dad come, can Nani and Nana be far behind? And while Moms and Dads come in twos, Nanas and Nanis tend to come in fours, which means double the cost of felicitating them, and all the more reason for some bright sales spark to come up with Grandmother's Day and Grandfather's Day.

Then there could be Auntie's Day and Uncle's Day, Niece's Day and Nephew's Day, Daughter's Day and Son's Day, Wife's Day and Husband's Day. Not to forget the in-laws. We could have Mother-in-Law's Day, Father-in-Law's Day, Sister-in-Law's Day and Brother-in-Law's… Thanks to marketing strategy, our Family Days might become our Family Daze. — Jug Suraiya in The Times of India

Rare orange lobster caught by fishing crew

Maine: A fishing crew off the shore of Maine found an ultra-rare orange lobster and decided to donate the crustacean to the University of New England.

Capt. Gregg Turner and his crew, Sage Blake and Mandy Cyr, caught the lobster while fishing aboard the boat Deborah and Megan.

Orange lobsters are believed to account for only about 1 in 30 million lobsters, making them 30 times more uncommon than blue lobsters.

The crew donated the lobster to the University of New England for study.

Researchers said the lobster is missing a claw, and studying how the claw grows back could offer them some answers as to the origins of the orange coloration.

Partygoers fish out sinking plane

Ontario: Police investigating a small plane on an Ontario beach learned the aircraft had sank overnight and was fished out of the water by bachelor partygoers.

South Simcoe Police said officers responded to a call about a small plane in the sand at Innisfil Beach Park in the Town of Innisfil.

Police learned a 31-year-old man had flown the plane in from Ottawa the previous day to attend a bachelor party, and left the plane docked overnight.

The pilot was alerted at 6:30 am the following morning that the plane had become unmoored and was sinking into the water.

"Party guests were roused from sleep and jumped into action, entering the water and dragging the aircraft to the beach," Police said and added "The pilot had a mechanic attend to fix the damage, then flew home with quite a story to tell."

55 killed in 5 months in accidents on Mysuru-Bengaluru Expressway

Mandya, June 9- The newly constructed Mysuru-Bengaluru Expressway is proving to be deadly with 55 people losing their lives in accidents on the Expressway in the past five-months. The accidents and deaths are mainly attributed to over-speeding and negligence on the part of vehicle drivers.

55 km of the 118 km Expressway comes under Mandya district and motorists are happy that the travel time between Mysuru and Bengaluru has been cut considerably with the construction of the Expressway. However, concerns have been raised over the high number of accidents taking place on the Expressway. Till May, 570 accident cases have been reported, in which 55 people were killed and 52 people were seriously injured, while 279 persons sustained minor injuries and 184 suffered fractures.

With Mysuru being the fastest growing city after the State capital Bengaluru, the Government built the Expressway at a cost of Rs.9,000 crore. But unscientific construction and incorrect alignment at some stretches of the Expressway has resulted in fatal accidents. Also, rash and negligent driving by motorists too has been a major contributor for the high number of accidents.

The motorists on their part, should drive safely and ensure safety of fellow passengers and motorists on the Expressway.

Rare white deer spotted at Nagarahole

H.D. Kote, June 9- Safari goers were in for a treat after they spotted a rare white deer also known as albino deer among a herd of deer at the backwaters of Taraka Dam in Antharasanthe Range of Nagarahole Forest recently.

White or albino deer is a deer that lack pigmentation. Albinism is much rarer and may only be observed in one in 30,000 deer. Albinism causes the white colour in animals. It occurs when an animal inherits one or more faulty genes from both parents, which stop the organism from making melanin, the main pigment responsible for the colour of the skin, fur, and eyes.

Spread about 642 sq. kms, Nagarahole houses many species of deer including spotted deer and sambar which are found in abundant.

Tourists and visitors can find them in herds whenever they go on a safari or passing by the road. Safari is being held in the backwaters of Taraka Dam in Nagarahole where safari goers come across herd of deer, elephants etc.

Rare white deer captured on camera by SOM photographer M.N. Lakshminarayana Yadav.

Recently, tourists came across a white deer in one of the herds and tourists have clicked photos of the white deer on their cameras and mobile phones which have gone viral on social media.

Star of Mysore photographer M.N. Lakshminarayana Yadav, who too had been to the backwaters of Taraka Dam recently, has also clicked photos of the white deer.

Range Forest Officer Siddaraju said that deficiency in Melanin (Melanin is a substance that produces skin pigmentation) causes variation in the colour of the skin which turns white.

Industry heads oppose power tariff hike; demand rollback

'Businesses will be forced to shut down or shift to other States where electricity charges are less'

Mysuru, June 9 (BCT)- The Mysore Chamber of Commerce and Industry (MCCI), represented by its President K.B. Lingaraju and KIADB Industrial Area Manufacturers Association (KIAMA), represented by its Vice-President K. Ravindra Prabhu, have expressed shock and disappointment over the steep increase in electricity rates effected by the Congress Government.

Lingaraju Suresh Jain

The average increase of Rs. 1.47 per unit, charged in the form of fixed and energy charges, is pushing industries, especially small-scale industries, towards closure, they said.

In a joint press release, they said that method of charging ensures a constant income for the Chamundeshwari Electricity Supply Corporation (CESC), regardless of whether consumers use electricity or not. CESC claims that it estimates a loss of Rs. 1,050 crores for the financial year 2023-2024. Lingaraju and Prabhu lament that even home and cottage industries have not been spared from this increase.

Various businesses, including laundry, bakeries, fodder choppers, milking machine operators, telephone booths run by physically challenged individuals, silk rearing and reeling units, small artisans, job typing services, Sulabh and Nirmal Shouchalayas (public toilets), STD/ISD/fax facilities and even astrologers are affected by this hike. The losses incurred are mainly due to the flawed policies, irregularities and inefficiency of CESC, they noted.

MCCI and KIAMA also highlight the issue of internet service providers illegally using distribution infrastructure without adhering to safety norms. Other losses are attributed to the failure to charge BJ, KJ, LT4(a), HT3(a), resulting in a loss of Rs. 482 crore.

"The delayed payment of default amounts incurs an interest loss of Rs. 162 crore while the purchase of high-cost energy amounts to Rs. 720 crore. Additionally, the interest on long-term capital loans accounts for Rs. 261 crore. The total loss incurred amounts to Rs. 1,625 crore. CESC's financial mismanagement is penalising consumers without improving its own business performance," they noted.

They urged the State Government to defer the power hike until normalcy returns to the economy. The tariff increase has distressed the industry and trade sector, which is already grappling with various challenges beyond its control.

The higher power bills, with an additional Rs. 2.89 per unit for the current month, adversely affects product prices and reduces profit margins. Micro and small-scale industries, as well as small traders, are finding it increasingly difficult to survive due to high input costs, they said.

Lingaraju warned that if recurring costs such as power continue to rise, businesses may be forced to shut down. He adds that businesses operating in other States may explore the possibility of relocating to States where costs are lower.

"We appeal to the Government to engage in discussions with industry and trade representatives, understand our situation and only then consider tariff revisions," they added.

They cautioned that any increase in fiscal expenditure should not come at the expense of the industry, which is already struggling to sustain itself. Imposing additional burdens on the industry could lead to drastic measures such as business closure, relocation to other States or reduced employment.

Drop power tariff hike: MIA

Strongly condemning the CESC's decision to hike power charges across all categories, the Mysore Industries Association (MIA) and MSME Council General Secretary Suresh Kumar Jain has urged the Government to drop the hike.

In a press release, Jain said that though CESC had collected Fuel Adjustment Clause (FAC) charges every month, the CESC's action of hiking the power tariff is nothing but illegal. Also, CESC had not notified the hike either on its website or through a press notification earlier. Now, all of a sudden CESC has issued a circular on May 31 for hiking power tariff by Rs. 2.42 a Unit, which is nothing but a deadly blow to Medium and Small Scale Industries. Hence, CESC should repeal the FAC tariff hike in the interests if Industries, he said. The industrial bodies will move KERC (Karnataka Electricity Regulatory Commission) if CESC does not withdraw the tariff hike, he said.

Traffic congestions at Mysuru-Bengaluru Expressway junctions

Start and end points needed better planning

We must admit our lack of competence in development of Highways and Expressways

By V. N. Prasad

Recently, I saw a video titled "China's mind-bending mega bridge: A magical journey on the world's most complex overpass." It is worth watching a million times.

Road traffic converging at a junction is so beautifully (I mean technically) segregated and diverted to respective destinations. The junction is spread over several hectares of land and the highest separator is at a height of 'twelve-storeyed building.'

I am sure it has raised many a brow even among AASHTO — American Association of State Highway and Transport Officials — an autonomous body in the US that designs and hands over completed road projects to the Government comprehensively and competently.

I guess NHAI (National Highways Authority of India) was also formed on similar lines. Whereas AASHTO consists of a private independent body of qualified and competent professionals, NHAI seems to be studded with officers from the Ministry of Road Transport and Highways (MoRTH).

I write this narrative with reference to the news item published in Star of Mysore dated May 25, 2023, titled "Bottleneck on Mysuru - Bengaluru Highway" wherein bizarre discussions are enumerated — all "slipshod" to say the least. Our system and practices are more reactive than the adage "first time, best time."

The message is loud and clear. "Design teams called DPR consultants" cannot be merely the ones to draw lines with 'mouses' using software; without a thought to the intricacies involved in connectivity, geometry, drainage and convenience to the public and several other details.

Expressway lacks fundamentals

Our Expressway is a grand demonstration of the lack of these fundamentals, especially at the ends at Kengeri in Bengaluru and Kempegowda Circle (Mysuru-Bengaluru Highway Outer Ring Road - ORR junction) in Mysuru.

Generally speaking, data collection and evaluation in final design proposals are important. Several teams, namely geotechnical, junction designing, hydrology, materials testing and data collectors from intervening towns, villages, hamlets etc., have to 'dwell and delve' for months to collect the minutest details before submitting final proposals called Detailed Project Report (DPR).

The term 'Detailed' in itself encompasses the meaning of exhaustive detailing and accuracy in the process. Competence is the essence. The exercise generally is in the following stages before a DPR is accepted for execution:

1. Inception report and review of the report.

2. DPR based on inception report.

3. A comprehensive review report of DPR; to bridge oversights of inception report and DPR.

Design deficiencies

All of the above shall minimise the after-effects of 'design deficiencies', leading to avoidable confusion and 'variation orders' further leading to 'escalations' at the cost of our tax-payers; all 'reactive' phenomena. The very fact that the project costs overshoot is because the DPR and processes involved are incomplete in nature.

Common sense would dictate to the inception report team that there is a NICE Road and a

Metro Line on the Kengeri side and therefore 'exit loops' had to be designed; one over the Metro to connect the Tumakuru side approach of NICE Road and the other to fly over the Expressway, onto NICE Road to connect Hosur side approach; instead of landing all traffic at ground level at Kengeri; a 'bottleneck' that even a Brahma can't solve.

On Mysuru side, the 'exit loops' had to necessarily fly over the 'aqueduct', less than 500 mts approaching Kempegowda Circle; to connect the Outer Ring Road onto Bannur Road side and Hunsur Road side while the ground level one could lead to city.

Competence, coordination

Of course, all these need extremely high competence to coordinate with the existing NICE road of Bengaluru and ORR of Mysuru. But, someone had to do it. And, because none did them, we have a situation that looks ridiculous, to say the least.

Now, coming to the so-called "interim relief measures," it all looks laughable. I contend that the RoW (right of way) approaching all major junctions need gradual widening over a distance at not more than 2 to 3 degrees, so that 'medians' could be narrowed to accommodate an additional lane of 3.50 mts plus another 50 cm for kerb edge and road painting widths at the junctions.

Now it's too late

For our traffic volumes, the length of such turning lanes needs to accommodate 10 to 15 long chassis vehicles for the efficient disposal of traffic volumes. And such aspects need thoughts in the inception report, not now.

I doubt if the current thought process either can accommodate a 4.00 mts turning lane at 2 to 3 degrees 'kerb inlets'. Else, we shall be exhibiting another school of hurried incompetent alteration. In the absence of a 4.00 mts turning lane width, I can right away see the backs of turning lane vehicles protruding into the adjoining lane. How do you tolerate such idiosyncrasies?

So, in 'sum and substance', we need to admit that we lack competence in the development of Highways and Expressways. It is no shame to hire highly experienced design firms from developed countries to establish offices in India, attach our teams to their offices, learn the art comprehensively to eliminate ridiculous mistakes and give good roads to our public. I challenge that this option would cost less to the exchequer.

Meanwhile, may God help our systems.

Additionally, the Government aims to establish cardiac and trauma care centres in Government Hospitals across all divisional headquarters.

This strategic move seeks to bring critical healthcare services closer to economically disadvantaged populations.

However, given the State Government's existing financial commitments and the implementation of poll freebies, Minister Patil expressed some reservations about the feasibility of opening new Government Medical Colleges in the remaining eight districts over the next five years.

He pointed out that during their previous tenure, the Government's objective was to establish a Medical College in each district, resulting in the current count of 22 Government Medical Colleges throughout the State.

The primary motivation behind this initiative was to expand medical education opportunities for underprivileged individuals and increase the availability of Government-sponsored medical seats with minimal fees, as opposed to the higher fees charged by private colleges.

Minister Patil emphasised the necessity of engaging in discussions with the Chief Minister to assess the viability of establishing additional Government Medical Colleges at this time.

Furthermore, the establishment of Government Medical Colleges at district headquarters would inherently enhance the quality of healthcare services in affiliated Government Hospitals. This would ensure that specialists from various Departments are readily available to provide free treatment to the economically disadvantaged population, he added.

Mango Mela-2023 at Kuppanna Park
98-tonne fruits sold, netting Rs. 80 lakh

Mysuru, June 9 (MTY&BCT)- The three-day Mango Mela held at Kuppanna Park from May 26 to May 28 brought joy to growers who had been concerned about the reduced yield caused by untimely rainfall. According to officials, the mela has also succeeded in taking the mango varieties to the public, especially the new generation.

The event saw a remarkable turnout of fruit lovers, resulting in the sale of approximately 98 tonnes of various mango varieties. Assistant Director of Horticulture Department K. Rudresh told Star of Mysore that despite the slightly higher prices, mango enthusiasts showed no hesitation in purchasing the fruit, leading to good profits for the farmers.

The farmers generated an impressive revenue of Rs. 70 lakh to Rs. 80 lakh and this revenue stands as one of the highest recorded in recent years for a mango mela. The event, co-organised by Karnataka Mango Development Board, showcased the potential of direct marketing, where farmers had the opportunity to sell their produce directly to consumers who sought quality and naturally ripened fruits.

The farmers, mainly from Mysuru, Ramanagara, Mandya, Kanakapura and Kolar, had set up 28 stalls to sell their produce and the mela attracted nearly 30,000 mango enthusiasts who had the opportunity to choose from a variety of mangoes, including Badami, Alphonso, Totapuri, Raspuri, Sendhura, and Malagova, Dussheri, Mallika, Sakkaraguthi, Totapuri, Kesar, Imam Pasand and Rumani.

Badami was the top selling variety with 22 tonnes, 13 tonnes of Raspuri, 5.5 tonnes of Alphonso, 8 tonnes of Mallika, 3 tonnes of Sendhura and 2.5 tonnes of Totapuri were sold. Customers also purchased mango saplings of various varieties, ornamental plants and also flowering plants.

"We were able to keep away middlemen and ensure fresh non-toxic mangoes without calcium carbide or other chemicals added," said Rudresh.

SSLC, II PUC exams
Under Jnanasiri, 50 topper girls to get Rs. 50,000 from MCC

Mysuru, June 9 (MK&BS)- Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) has launched an unique scheme of empowering top scoring girl students in SSLC and II PUC exams of Government Schools and Colleges in its limits by providing a financial assistance of Rs. 50,000 under Jnanasiri scheme.

The MCC in its recent budget had announced the launch of Jnanasiri scheme, where 25 top scoring girl students each in SSLC and II PUC exams, totalling 50 students will get Rs. 50,000 each.

Mayor Shivakumar told Star of Mysore that "The beneficiaries will be selected on the basis of their marks and only the students of Government educational institutions are eligible for the benefit. The poor students will be in more numbers at Government institutions. To encourage them in their education, MCC has devised a first of its kind program ever in its history by earmarking such a huge amount."

When the budget was tabled, it had been announced that only 10 girl students will be given the financial assistance. But the number of beneficiaries was increased to 25 after discussing with the Chairman of Finance, Taxation and Appeals Standing Committee and the Corporators, added Mayor Shivakumar.

Mayor Shivakumar further said that "Rs. 25 lakh has been already set aside for effective implementation of the scheme. The format of application will be readied after discussing with Officers concerned who will be tasked with the responsibility of implementing the scheme."

With the results of both SSLC and II PUC exams announced recently, we will make efforts to implement the scheme from the current year itself.

Earlier it had been decided to implement the scheme from the next academic year by inviting applications after informing Government Schools and Colleges soon after the announcement of SSLC and II PUC exams results, said Mayor Shivakumar.

The Jnanasiri scheme has been introduced with the sole motive of encouraging girl students from poor families, dreaming to pursue higher education. It will not just financially help those students to an extent, but also Government institutions in encouraging them, said Mayor Shivakumar.

WORD OF THE DAY

Obstinate

Pronunciation: AHB-stuh-nut.
Meaning: Obstinate at its most basic means "stubborn."
Origin: English has no shortage of words to describe stubbornness, and obstinate is one. It suggests an unreasonable persistence and is often used negatively to describe someone who is unwilling to change course or to give up a belief or plan. Animals can be obstinate, too—for instance, say, a beloved pet cat that refuses to get out of your easy chair when you want to sit down. Such an example makes a lot of sense with regard to obstinate's history, too: the word traces back to a combination of the Latin prefix ob-, meaning "in the way," and a word related to stare, meaning "to stand."
Example: "... [Louise Bates] Ames has an uncanny way of capturing the essence of children at different developmental stages, and when you understand that it is your child's work to behave this way, that the behaviour is serving growth and maturity, you are less likely to try to squash it. For instance, when you've nicely asked your 2-year-old to stop jumping on the couch and they look you in the eyes and keep jumping? It's helpful to know that this obstinate behaviour is normal and is not a reason to double-down or punish your child. Instead, speak less, redirect and provide other things for your child to jump on." — Meghan Leahy, The Washington Post, 3 Aug. 2022

THE ODD WORD

Obluctation

Resistance; opposition.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

On the ball

Meaning: This phrase is a used to say when someone understands the situation very well. Meaning alert, efficient, and quick to respond to something, is a term often used to show when someone is capable and overly competent. It can also mean being well-prepared or being aware of what's happening around you.
Origin: The root of the phrase comes from sports and ball games. It goes back to the early days of baseball and how people would tell the batter to "keep their eye on the ball" if they wanted to hit it. So, eventually, the phrase "on the ball" became one you'd use to show that you're hitting the mark on something. But some people state that the saying "on the ball," "be on the ball," and "get on the ball" all come from Webb C. Ball, a watchmaker from the 1800s who invented the timing system for railroads to keep trains on track and on time.
Example: "Dana is totally on the ball since she started taking her vitamin supplements every day."
